

Alerts received 30 December, 2015

Hoax postal delivery scam

PhonepayPlus, the UK regulator for premium rate and phone-paid services, has made us aware that there has been a hoax warning email circulating about a postal delivery scam operating on the number 09066611911. The number is no longer in use and was shut down by PhonepayPlus a number of years ago.

Alert: Correspondence from the National Fraud Intelligence Bureau about email addresses which have been compromised

22-12-2015 02:38 PM GMT

Against a background of one of the busiest times of year for shoppers and ecommerce merchants the National Fraud Intelligence Bureau (NFIB) is today issuing an email alert to several hundred users of a variety of online services.

Intelligence received by the bureau suggests that accounts linked to these email addresses have been compromised and believes that the offenders are preparing to misuse the accounts over the coming weeks.

Last minute online shopping? Watch out for fraudsters who take advantage of the Christmas rush

21-12-2015 03:06 PM GMT

There are just a few days left to get all of your Christmas shopping sorted and whilst people are rushing around, online shopping fraudsters are using the run-up to the big day as an opportunity to illegally make money.

Multiple victims defrauded after trying to book winter holidays on fake websites

15-12-2015 11:37 AM GMT

Action Fraud has received multiple reports from people who have been defrauded after paying for winter holiday accommodation on RightSki.com and ChaletHunter.com.

NCA launches new campaign to target UK's youngest cyber criminals

10-12-2015 02:31 PM GMT

The National Crime Agency (NCA) has launched a new campaign called #CyberChoices to discourage young people from becoming involved in cyber crime.