Doncaster Waites

The Doncaster Waites are an early music group based in the town of Doncaster. They take their name from the bands of musicians who used to be employed by local corporations as town musicians, "The Waites". The music they play is generally centred around the first half of the 17th century, the time when the first detailed accounts of the original Doncaster Waites appear in the archives. Their costume is also based on these accounts and the men accurately represent how the original Waites would have looked at that time.
